

Sakuting

The "Sakuting" is a folk dance of the Ilocanos and of the non-Christian people in the mountain provinces. The dance described here was found in Abra among the Christian Filipinos.

At Christmas time, it is customary in the Ilocos regions to dance this in front of homes and in the town "plaza." Groups of boys and young men go to the lowlands to perform from house to house. They receive from spectators, gifts or "aguinaldos" of money, drinks, fruit, or typical Filipino delicacies especially prepared for the Christmas season.

NOTE: This may be danced by both boys and girls, or, as in the original, by boys alone.

COSTUME. Girls wear "balintawak" style with "siesgo" skirt (no train). The boys wear red trousers and "barong tagalog" made of coarse, cheap material. Each dancer holds two sticks (one in each hand) with which to produce rhythmic sounds, timed with his steps. The stick is about one and one-half feet long and tapers at the end like a candle. It is held at the big end.

MUSIC is divided into ten parts: Entrance, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, and I.

COUNT one two or one, and, two to a measure of $\frac{2}{4}$ time, and one, two, three to a measure of $\frac{3}{4}$ time.

FORMATION. Partners stand opposite each other about four feet apart. They are placed according to height, with the smallest couple in front. Four couples make a set or group. From one to any number of sets may take part. (See diagram A. Note staggered formation of partners.)
